Don't have an account? Request an invite from username.

A. Sign in dialog

The "request an invite" link loads dialog B into the same pop-up (see page 2).

Notes:

Error messaging style is TBD, but all error messages should use the same style (highlighted box + information at top of the dialog/page) across the site.

Error messages/scenarios:

(1) User enters wrong username/password: "Something about your username and/or password didn't work. Why don't you try again?"

(2) User does not enter anything into username/password field: "It looks like you didn't enter anything into the username (or password) field. Why don't you try that again?"

request an invite

If you don't have a RIPL account, you can request an invite from [username]. Required fields are in bold.

email address

first name

B. Request an invite dialog

invite request received

Thanks for requesting an invite! Once [username] approves your request, you'll receive an invite at the email address you provided.

B.1.a. Request an invite confirmation dialog - approved domain

invite request received

Since we're currently in closed beta, we haven't yet allowed your email domain to join RIPL. However, we'll keep your information on file and email you as soon as we're accepting new members.

B.1.a. Request an invite confirmation dialog - unapproved domain

Error messages/scenarios:

(1) User neglects to fill in a required field: "Missing required field."

(2) User enters some sort of invalid zip code: No error message returned, as this field isn't required. We should handle this problem on the back end.

Maximum length of zip code field should be five digits.

C. Request an invite dialog

sign up complete

Thanks for signing up with RIPL. Time to set up your profile!

C.1 Registration confirmation review text on the register screen - two cases: one when forwarded content.

Note: welcome email should go to both the preferred and the original email address.

The "register an account" dialog also appears if a user accesses the site through a forward or invite email, and then attempts to interact with site features requiring authentication. Since they already have an invite code, we should prepopulate the fields on the registration form.

Error messages/scenarios:

(1) User neglects to fill in a required field: "It looks like you didn't enter anything into the (field name) field. Why don't you try again?"

Maximum length of zip code field should be... (error checking if you're under thirteen.)
